

GEN. FAYROLLE DID NOT MISS WINE IN U. S.

Paris, France, Nov. 18.—Gen. Fayrolle said upon his return recently from three weeks' stay in the United States:

"I have just discovered America and America has conquered me. It is a wonderful land."

"It has been a hard fight, these three weeks in America," the general went on with the usual humorous twinkle in his eye.

"I came back on the verge of collapse with grim dyspepsia holding me in its grip. Without taking back anything that I have said about American expeditionary forces, could help me, I must take off to my native land. There were many languages, luncheon, I survive them all."

"To the suggestion that most of the chefs at the leading hotels were French, Gen. Fayrolle replied: 'They are, but they certainly have undergone an evolution for they have strange dishes of their own.'"

"Did you miss your wine with your meals?" he was asked.

"I never missed my wine," Fayrolle replied.

"Don't ask me to talk about American politics," Gen. Fayrolle went on when requested to explain whether he meant he had wine twice a day, as is his custom, or that he did not miss it temperamentally.

"I have had a grandiose reception that I shall never forget, although I am certain it was not for me personally, but because I represented material French and the French army."

"I lived through it, but even the organizers of my tour had to admit it was a record for endurance."

Tanlac has completely restored my health and I feel finer than I have years."

"I was the straightest, most honest, most successful man in the Middle West."

"I had not only made a new man of me but I have actually gained 25 pounds in weight and feel as well as I ever did in my life. I am telling all of my friends about Tanlac but they can see for themselves what it has done to my case."

"When I began taking Tanlac I was in an awful run-down condition. I was away all in weight, felt weak and nervous all of the time and couldn't take any interest in my work or anything else. My main trouble was indigestion. Nothing

KING WANTED; 3 PRETENDERS IN HUNGARY

Budapest, Hungary, Nov. 18.—Hungary is waiting and looking for a king. Townsfolk and peasants alike agree that no one but a king can govern the country. To these people the word republic simply means a separation from Austria.

There are three pretenders to the throne. Admiral Horthy is at present pointed out here that he left the country at the end of the war, but he never abdicated. Popular during his short reign, he remains so now. For the people realize that he did all in his power to put an end to the war. The only fear on the part of the people is that Charles' evocation might meet with disaster among the rulers of bordering states, who intimidate that his popularity might influence the inhabitants of provinces taken away from Austria by the treaty of St. Germain.

The other pretender is archduke Joseph, who for a few months took the reins of power after Bela Kun and his red associates had been overthrown by the people. He had to resign following a strong protest from the entire nation that he was considered to be allied politically with the Hungarian families.

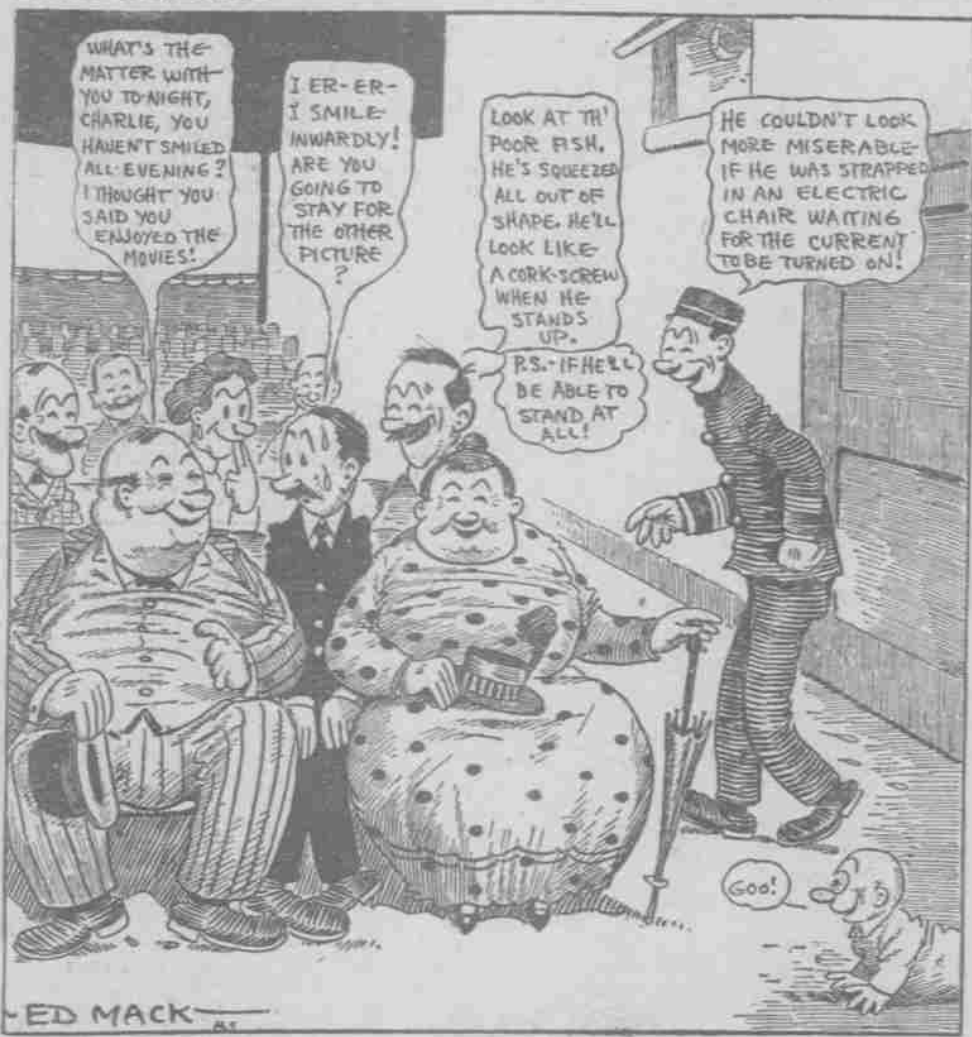

In the strict sense of the word, archduke Joseph is not a pretender, neither would he be a candidate for the throne. When the master mentioned in his presence, he merely says, "I have but the interests of Hungary at heart. I am not a schemer. I am of the firm opinion that Hungary should never again engage in a war."

There are some persons who would favor archduke Othon, Charles' son, as king, with archduke Horthy as regent. Whoever the candidates be, one thing is certain in Hungary, a king is needed, and a king there will be.

Secrets Of The Movies Revealed

Q. What is meant by "stopping down" a camera?

It means slowly closing out the light on the film by means of a "stop" or diaphragm in the lens, which can be adjusted so that the opening for the light which goes through the lens is made large or small. Every amateur photographer knows that by stopping down his lens he will get more detail in his picture. However, if he takes the picture as fast as he would with the lens wide open, his picture will have less detail and may be quite hazy. In the movie camera, the diaphragm or stop is left open for figures which are to be in plain view on the screen and stopped down for dim, unimportant figures such as apparitions. By slowly opening this stop, the figure can be made gradually to appear in sight and, by closing slowly, to disappear. Each successive picture as it is taken will have a slightly stronger or more faint impression of the images photographed.

Q. What is the latest child discovery for the movies?

A. Bobby Kolos, who was discovered by Clarence Brown, is being featured by RKO in his production. He appears in the screen version of an Ella Parker Butler story.

Q. What are the weight and height of Mary Pickford's Dorothy Gish?

A. Mary is five feet tall and weighs 110 pounds. Dorothy is the same height, but weighs 120 pounds more. Constance is 5'6" inches tall and weighs 130 pounds. Maxine weighs 115 pounds and is three inches over five feet tall.

Q. To whom is Pearl White married?

A. Pearl is Mrs. Wallace McCutcheon. She is 31 years old.

Gloria Swanson Says She Is Real Old Fashioned Mother

Shoes worn by some Chinese women are only five inches long.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 18.—This city, motion picture capital of the world, has an unknown queen, who from present appearance will never wear the diadem of popularity which a host of admirers would have thrust upon her.

The object of these unusual honors, who is so famous, is not an elaborate, guarded, as was the famous hundred million dollar McLean baby. It is just a wee little girl, of course, who has nothing to say about coronations, but her mother has as thereby hangs a tale.

When Mrs. Herbert K. Somnath, known to millions of "movie" fans as Gloria Swanson, became a mother on October 12, a legion of motion picture stars, near stars, actors, superstars, property men, press agents and movie managers who have at some time been associated with her joined in various little celebrations.

They decided that Gloria Swanson Somnath, heiress to the fame of her mother, should be appropriately honored. But they met with an unexpected move on the part of the parent when she was told of the shower of publicity that awaited the newborn.

"My baby belongs to me, not to 'movie land,'" said Mrs. Somnath. "And she will not be the honored guest at parties, posed for a battery of camera men, or carried around by press agents to satisfy the curiosity of an admiring public."

"I may appear selfish, but I want my baby all to myself and husband. We are so happy these days that I think of nothing but what she means to us. Maybe I am old fashioned—I hope I am—for a home and a motion picture career are two different things. While I may belong to a world of make believe, my little Gloria belongs only to her parents."

Woman Gets Souvenir After Trial In Airplane

Paris, France, Nov. 18.—Sud-Lorraine, the winner of the Gordon Bennett cup race for aviators, was just ready to go up from the Rue aviation field when an American woman stepped up and asked:

"Won't you take me up?"

"Surely," replied Lorraine, "where do you want to go?"

"To Genoa, I do wish to see that Landru villa."

He obliged, landing within 100 feet of the villa made famous by the disappearance of 11 women to whom Landru had promised marriage. When she left she carried away a souvenir.

VOLCANOE OF HAWAII TO BE SET WORKING

Honolulu, T. H., Nov. 18.—The volcano of Hawaii, whether dead or alive, are working or are going to be made to work for the people.

Honolulu has just tapped the extinct crater of Palolo, overlooking the city and is getting therefrom 2,000,000 gallons of drinking water daily. Still, on the island of Hawaii, is raising a fund to tap the active volcano Kilauea, and utilize the tremendous volume of gases there for industrial and other purposes.

The cup-shaped top of the extinct crater around Honolulu are known to act as collection and storage reservoirs for immense amounts of water. A great deal of this has been seeping through the sides of the former volcanic hills. Recently the Honolulu waterworks department went prospecting for new sources of supply, decided to bore into the side of Palolo crater and when the boring was completed obtained a rush of sparkling water that totaled 1,500,000 gallons the first day and then jumped to 2,000,000 gallons daily.

While Honolulu has been experimenting with water, it has been discussing the possibility of fire, as embodied in the great ever-active volcano, Kilauea, 40 miles from that city's door. Scientists declare that its pent-up gases have limitless possibilities from an industrial and power standpoint, while they also contain all the food elements necessary to sustain the human body, carbon, nitrogen, hydrogen and lime.

Already $1500 has been subscribed to the fund for experiments at Kilauea and this, it is hoped, soon will be swelled to the $5000 necessary to do preliminary work.

"Nothing is sacred for these Americans," Landru said when he heard of the occurrence.
